PURPOSE AND OUTCOME Course Overview

This course is designed to introduce students who are interested in pursuing careers in fields related to human communication to sound and auditory perception. The course is organized around three major topic areas:

- 1) Sound: How it is generated, propagated, and analyzed
- 2) Structure and function of the human auditory system
- 3) Perceptual processes involving nonspeech and speech signals

Course Objectives:

At the end of this course, students will be able to:

- Explain how nonspeech and speech signals are generated and propagated
- Understand analyses, descriptions, and graphs of acoustic waveforms and spectrograms
- Compute or derive measurements of amplitude, frequency, phase, and time for acoustic signals
- Describe structures and functions of the human auditory system from the pinna to the cortex
- Explain the role that complex auditory functions had in the evolution of language for the species and have in the development of language for the individual
- Explain categorical speech perception
- Evaluate research reports and critically assess quality of the science presented in those reports

Instructional Method: Lectures, readings

This course will use blended learning, which is a composite of face-to-face meetings and recorded lectures. The recorded lectures provide the student with the opportunity to review the material at the rate and with the repetition that matches individual learning needs. It allows the instructor to include demonstrations that would be difficult to provide in class. Each student is responsible for interacting with the course content to the extent required to reach mastery. Instructional staff are available to support student learning, as requested.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING

Assignments

1. Lectures: This is a hybrid course. Some lectures will be in person and some will be recorded. The student is responsible for watching all lectures and taking notes. The student is responsible for communicating with the instructor if there is a problem with comprehension.
2. Reading: The student is responsible for reading all assigned material. Although all material for assessments will be covered in class, the reading material supplements class lectures.
3. Computational practice: The student is responsible for completing all assigned practices and checking answers against answer sheets provided. Similar problems will be found on tests.
4. Assessment worth varying numbers of points will count for 65% of the student's grade. There are no makeup assessments, so students should ensure attendance in class on days when an assessment is scheduled.
5. A final assessment (exam) will count for 20% of the student's grade. This exam will be given on Tuesday, December 12 at 3:00. There is no makeup exam, so students should ensure attendance at that exam.
6. Written Papers: The journal article review will count for 10% of the student's grade. The journal article to be reviewed will be assigned. A guide for the review paper is provided in the Assignments section of Canvas, as well as a scoring rubric. A reflection paper will count for 5% of the student's grade.

Thus, grades will consist of:

65%: Six assessments worth varying numbers of points

10%: Review Paper

05%: Reflection Paper

20%: Final Exam TUESDAY, DECEMBER 12 AT 3:00 PM

Online Faculty Course Evaluation Process

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluations at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/>.

SUPPORT SERVICES Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

If you require classroom accommodation because of a disability, it is strongly recommended you register with the Disability Resource Center within the first week of class or as soon as you believe you might be eligible for accommodations. The Disability Resource Center will provide documentation of accommodations to you, which you must then give to me as the instructor of the course to receive accommodations. Please do this as soon as possible after you receive the letter. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester. The College is committed to providing reasonable accommodations to assist students in their coursework.

Inclusive Learning Environment

Public health and health professions are based on the belief in human dignity and on respect for the individual. As we share our personal beliefs inside or outside of the classroom, it is always with the understanding that we value and respect diversity of background, experience, and opinion, where every individual feels valued. We believe in, and promote, openness and tolerance of differences in ethnicity and culture, and we respect differing personal, spiritual, religious and political values. We further believe that celebrating such diversity enriches the quality of the educational experiences we provide our students and enhances our own personal and professional relationships. We embrace The University of Florida's NonDiscrimination Policy, which reads, "The University shall actively promote equal opportunity policies and practices conforming to laws against discrimination. The University is committed to non-discrimination with respect to race, creed, color, religion, age, disability, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, marital status, national origin, political opinions or affiliations, genetic information and veteran status as protected under the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act." If you have questions or concerns about your rights and responsibilities for inclusive learning environment, please see your instructor or refer to the Office of Multicultural & Diversity Affairs website: www.multicultural.ufl.edu

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A "class lecture" is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.
